

National Consumers League Health Advisory Council

Since its founding in 1899, the National Consumers League's (NCL) mission has been to protect and promote social and economic justice for consumers and workers in the United States and abroad. Our work is carried out through three core pillars—research, education, and advocacy—and supports policies that improve access to more affordable, high-quality healthcare.

NCL's Health Advisory Council (HAC) is a membership-based council that brings together organizations working in the healthcare arena, including patient and consumer advocacy groups, health professionals, life science companies, research institutions, and government agencies.

The mission of the HAC is to convene a diverse membership to share perspectives and insights, identify common interests and areas for possible collaboration and partnership, and lay a foundation of support for NCL's work in health-related consumer education and advocacy. In addition to informing and advocating on important public health issues such as access to high quality affordable healthcare, medication adherence, and helping consumers navigate the healthcare system, the HAC maintains ongoing conversations with members through informative newsletters and collaborative events.

Why partner with us?

We are the nation's oldest consumer advocacy organization.

We offer year-round opportunities to connect with NCL and the broad range of health policy stakeholders.

We are committed to making America healthier:

- By promoting health literacy and empowering consumers to make informed healthcare decisions
- By advocating for high-quality, affordable, and more equitable healthcare

We offer opportunities to organizations to build their networks, amplify their work, and leverage NCL's superpower – a direct line to consumers and other healthcare stakeholders.
